

Boston Center for the Arts Announces New Performing Arts Residencies

Eight Theatre and Three Boston Dance Companies to Join BCA's New Performing Arts Program

Boston, MA, October 2015—Boston Center for the Arts (BCA), Boston's premier nonprofit organization dedicated to serving up-and-coming visual and performing artists in the Greater Boston area, is pleased to announce the recipients of the new BCA Performing Arts Residency Program.

The BCA Performing Arts Residency Program serves emerging and early stage theatre and dance companies. Prompted by the close of the Factory Theatre, the newly restructured Performing Arts Residency grew out of community conversations with area small theatres. BCA is excited to offer an expanded program that includes three dance companies and an additional eight resident theatre companies.

Each group is awarded a three-year residency at BCA with discounted performance and rehearsal space, as well as professional development and networking opportunities. At the end of the three-year period companies have the option to renew their residency for an additional two years. Each company is expected to produce at least one public event per season. The 2016–2017 season will be the inaugural round of the program.

“The new BCA Performing Arts Residency provides the stability many companies need in order to dive into the work of making art,” said Veronique LeMelle, BCA President & CEO. “One of the biggest barriers to ‘creating’ in the performing arts is the time spent looking for space. By making our campus home to these 10 companies they can focus their energies on the creative process. This reflects one of the core principles of the BCA mission—to support working artists.”
