Calderwood Pavilion at Boston Center for the Arts

The Calderwood Pavilion was designed by Boston–based architects for the arts Wilson Butler Lodge Inc., working with theatre consultants Fisher Dachs Associates and acoustical consultants Acentech. It is a 35,000 square feet complex with a three–story interior space, which includes two theatres, rehearsal rooms and backstage facilities.

The Calderwood Pavilion at BCA is the result of a joint venture between Boston Center for the Arts and the Huntington Theatre Company. The Calderwood Pavilion is the first new theatre built in Boston in more than 75 years. The Huntington Theatre Company manages the facility and programs it cooperatively with BCA. The Wimberly Theatre is named in honor of the wife of Huntington Trustee J. David Wimberly, who joined the Board in 1993 and served as its chair from 1996-2010. The Studio Theatre is named in honor of long-time Huntington donors and subscribers, Nancy and Edward Roberts.

Virginia Wimberly Theatre

A state-of-the-art proscenium theatre with a capacity of 370, this space is ideal for performances, concerts and dance presentations.
An intimate flexible space that can comfortably accommodate your performances, conferences and catered affairs.

Carol G. Deane and Nicholas Martin Rehearsal Halls
Located on the second floor of the Calderwood Pavilion, these creative rooms feature stunning floor-to-ceiling windows overlooking Tremont Street. Although these rooms were specifically constructed for rehearsal use, they provide a flexible performance venue with seating capacity for 50 people. Additionally, they are the perfect place for a reception, conference, meeting, luncheon or seminar.

Arts Resource Room

Located on the third floor of the Calderwood Pavilion, this is the perfect classroom space to host your next workshop, meeting or class. These facilities are available for rent at commercial and non-profit rates, subject to availability.

For more information and booking-related questions or inquiries for Nicholas Martin Rehearsal Hall or the Arts Resource Room, contact Boston Center for the Arts Venue Services Team at 617.456.1138 or theatrerentals@bcaonline.org.

For more information and booking-related questions or inquiries for the Virginia Wimberly
Theatre, Nancy & Edward Roberts Studio Theatre, or the Carol G. Deane Rehearsal Hall, contact Calderwood Pavilion Management at 617.933.8671 or rentals@bostontheatrescene.com.